

Maritime news, analysis
and industry trends,
tailored to you.

Independent. Objective. Trusted.

The original source.

Maritime information is everywhere. With so many channels, opinions and sources, it's hard to know which facts you can trust.

Lloyd's List is the original and trusted maritime source, delivering validated news and insight directly from industry experts.

Navigate challenges today, anticipate tomorrow.

For nearly 300 years, Lloyd's List has been the trusted independent partner and source of maritime data, analysis, insights, and expertise. We provide professionals with the complete view of every part of the global maritime industry, enabling them to act quickly, confidently and stay up to date.

Trusted for 300 years.

Back in 1688, coffee house proprietor Edward Lloyd recognized the need for a single, reliable and validated source of intelligence for the maritime industry. Lloyd's List grew from the heart of the maritime community to do just that, putting the power back into the hands of professionals. A legacy that continues to this day.

Bringing you the what and the why.

Lloyd's List goes beyond the news, revealing the why and what it means for your business. Our experts filter, curate, validate and assess the latest events to bring you what matters most.

"A long form, future looking product... which differentiates Lloyd's List from the competition."

Business Economist

International trading and shipping company

Stay up-to-date on key industry developments

Daily tailored updates give you the latest essential developments from around the globe.

Track clients, sectors and key themes of interest

Receive and act on alerts about companies, sectors and themes of interest.

Research the industry and its players

Build a complete view of players within the industry with access to an extensive online archive of news and analysis.

Understand the regulatory environment

Read and evaluate the latest analysis on regulatory changes. Understand their impact on the industry so you can plan and mitigate their impact on you and your client's business.

Stay connected.

In a volatile market, you need accurate, consistent and useable insights to drive your business and stay ahead of the competition. Lloyd's List keeps your finger on the pulse, as well as helping you understand the long term view of the industry and maritime trade.

We are the only news service with an editorial board, deeply connected to the most important challenges in the industry. This means our news, analysis and insight is second to none. So you will always be fully briefed and prepared for any business meeting or important negotiation.

Evaluate the market outlook

Build your business strategy on a clear understanding of maritime trade patterns, and the long-term outlook for the industry.

Identify new commercial opportunities

Identify and explore growth opportunities by tracking new entrants, existing players, and regulatory changes.

Our people.

Our independent, trusted team of impartial journalists and analysts draw on countless years of experience when monitoring and reporting on the maritime industry. They provide a validated, filtered view of the key news issues and themes, so you don't have to trawl through hundreds of sources yourself.

Our data.

We have unparalleled access to vessel, company, port and fleet databases. This means our journalists have the richest data sources to validate and quantify their stories, giving you the most complete picture.

The Lloyd's List difference

Our network.

We have direct connections to the key leaders running and monitoring the global maritime industry, and a strict, independent editorial methodology. This ensures that we're the first to provide validated industry reaction to new regulation, how key players plan to respond and what this means for your business.

“

In the age of the internet, where information is abundant, comment is free but verified facts are few and far between, Lloyd's List's authority, accuracy and editorial independence are more important now than at any point in our history.”

Richard Meade
Managing Editor, Lloyd's List

Lloyd's List in numbers.

 1,200+ Leading organizations using Lloyd's list

Active users each month 3,250

100,000
Page views each month

 Extensive searchable archive

25+
Journalists & contributors

100,000+ Articles available to search

 350+ Articles published each month

Personalized news alerts each month
7K

To find out more about Lloyd's List,
contact us on:

Americas Tel:  +1 212 600 3460
lloydslist.com/findoutmore

Lloyd's List, part of Lloyd's List Intelligence, brings unique insight on the most important developments in the maritime industry to 20,000 professionals around the world, through curated maritime news and market analysis, evidenced by our transparent and actionable data.

Unique insight
since 1734

Trusted by 60,000
professionals

Customers
in 110
countries

180 colleagues
across the globe

